RACHEL'S ORDEAL.

Rachel Bowers was far from being happy, and yet she was mistress of one of the grandest mansions, and one of the finest estates, in Middlesex. As far as she could see the land was hers, with the beautiful slopes, the shady dells, the spreading meadows, and the distant hedge of the old forest trees. Mistress of the mansion, and mistress of the broad domain, she sat in her chair and was unhappy. And she was unhappy because——

In the other years, when she was plain Rachel Stevens, her father and her mother had been the keepers of Oakwood, as the estate was called, and she had played, a happy child, upon the velvety lawn. In those years Oakwood had belonged to Capt. Barnaby Bowers, who owned ships, and sailed to and fro across the ocean. Captain Barnaby owned the estate, and he hired Jason Stevens and his wife, Matilda, to take care of it.

Jason and Matilda had not been married until well advanced in life (they had met first upon the estate), and Rachel was their only child; and when Rachel came to be seventeen her parents had passed into the "sear and yellow leaf." At this time Captain Barnaby Bowers gave up the sea, and came to settle at Oakwood. He had money enough, and he had resolved that he would fret himself with business no more. An experienced physician, however, could have told him that his energy was dying out—that he was growing old before his time—either from some inherited disease, or from some ailment incurred during his years of labor and exposure.

But Captain Barnaby Bowers came home. He was fifty, and not ill-looking. He was very kind to Jason Stevens and his wife; and particularly was he kind to Rachel. She was the sunlight of the mansion—a bright-eyed happy-faced, beautiful girl, with the purity of a soul that knew no guile stamped in celestial brightness upon every lineament of her lovely feature.

A year passed, and during a part of the time Captain Bowers was sick, and he would have no nurse but Rachel. As for Jason and Matilda, they were like two family relics, held for the associations with the past, but of little present value. They had become too old to labor much, and the captain gave them a home just as he would have given it to two little children. All this made Rachel very grateful. Alas, that it should have been so!

The year passed, and Capt. Barnaby walked out again; and out in the garden one day, in one of the grapery bowers, he asked Rachel to be his wife; and he gave her four-and-twenty hours to consider the matter. If she would be his wife, her parents should have a home while they lived, and he would treat her tenderly.

At first Rachel was shocked; but in time she was able to reason calmly.—She knew that she could never love Captain Bowers. She could respect him, but as for love, she could not even give him a brother's place.

She fancied that she knew what love was. Had she told her fancy to another, she would have been laughed at. It was simply that of a child—a fancy reaching back into the years when she had romped and played upon the lawn with Barnaby Bowers' cabin boy, Arthur Lee. She remembered Arthur Lee very well—a strong, bold, venturesome lad—her beau-ideal of the sailor boy, and of the hero. She remembered how she had cried when he went away; and she remembered how the chill of a great agony fell upon her heart when Capt. Bowers came home during the following year, and told how Arthur Lee had been lost at sea.

This was Rachel's dream of love—a child's dream; but, nevertheless, one from which all future thoughts of love were to take direction. The gleaming of the love light had been very brief. The sailor-boy had flashed upon her—coming, she knew not whence, only that he was bound to Captain Bowers—he had made bright and joyous a few brief weeks—and then he had gone from her, and she had seen him no more; but his image had not been effaced—she felt that it never could be. Her heart may have been a very childish one in those other years, but impressions made upon it were very deep and some of them were stamped upon the tablets which only death can shatter.

As she had loved her sailor-boy she could never love another. But could she love Captain Barnaby at all? She remembered how much she owed to him—how she had been the creature of his bounty since she was born—and how he had always been very good and kind to her. But, above all, was the duty she owed to her parents.—They were old and decrepid. She now had it in her power to give them a home, and—she resolved to do it!

So Rachel married with Capt. Barnaby Bowers. She told him frankly that she did not love him as a wife should love a husband, but that she rather felt in the place of an obedient child. People shook their heads and said it was wrong. Old Barnaby Bowers to marry with Rachel Stevens, and she only eighteen! Some said it was wicked! And a few there were who blamed Rachel. They called her mercenary, and said she had sold herself for Barnaby Bowers' great wealth.—But those that said this were cruel and wicked indeed. The only thought which the girl had given to the wealth of Oakwood was of the home which would be afforded her parents. In marrying with the owner she acted rather with the obedience of a child than with any design.

Two years Rachel lived as the wife of Barnaby Bowers. Captain Bowers as a husband proved not so kind as Captain Bowers as a bachelor friend and patron. He became petulant and exacting; and, moreover, in the end he became jealous. At first he invited young people to his mansion to make his wife happy; and when he saw that their presence gave her pleasure which his companionship could not afford, he drove them away.

Thus for two years, and then Barnaby Bowers died, and was buried. His will was read, and it was found to be very simple. By it he left everything of which he might die possessed of to his "beloved wife Rachel," for her use while she remained single; and in the event of her marrying again the whole property, without reservation of any kind, was to go to his sister Prudence, and through her to her heirs.

At first Rachel cared not for this.—She did not think she would ever wish to marry again. She was able now to give her aged parents a home; and with the great wealth at her command she felt that she could employ herself in doing good among the poor and needy around her. She remembered Captain Bowers' sister, Mrs. Prudence Marshall, as a tall, gaunt woman, well advanced in life, who had visited Oakwood several times in the other years, but whose family duties, in a distant State, had prevented her presence since her brother's marriage. She believed, however, that Mrs. Prudence was now a widow, with one or two grown-up daughters on her hands.

Captain Barnaby had been dead a year, when one pleasant day in June a gentleman called at Oakwood to see him. The stranger was a young man—not more than five-and-twenty—tall, robust, and handsome—his garb and his bror zed features giving token of life upon the sea though the quality of the garb, as well as the bearing of the wearer, bespoke the man of command rather than the bearer of service. He had not heard of Capt. Bowers' death. He had known him in other times, and had come far out of his way to meet him.

Rachel went down, and met the stranger in the drawing-room; and she met one raised from the dead. It was Arthur Lee. He had not been drowned. He had caught a floating spar; and had been picked up by a Dutch trader; and had been taken to Australia; and had gone thence to Holland; and had finally come to command a ship in the employ of the Dutch East India company.

And Arthur Lee, finding Rachel so glad to see him, stopped at Oakwood; and in a very few days Rachel knew that the love of the other years had not died out. If the bright-eyed, laughter-loving sailor boy had been dear to her in the needs of childhood, how much more did her heart go out towards the brave and gallant youth who had now come to her in the bright morning of his manhood's healthful flush and vigor

And how was it with Arthur Lee? That he loved Rachel was evident enough; but had he borne her image in his heart as she had borne his? He said he had, and she believed him. He lingered, and could not go away without telling his love.

Rachel awoke as from a blissful dream when Arthur told her that he loved her—that he had loved her ever since that bright childhood's time, and that he should love her while he lived. And when he would have spoken further she put up her hands, and motioned for him to stop. She was pale and frightened, and he feared that he had offended.

"No, no," she said. "Let me go now. Say no more. Let me think."

And thus speaking she sped away to her own chamber, where she sat down and reflected; and she was not happy. She loved Arthur Lee, and she knew full well that he loved her. "But what must be the result if they married?" Arthur had confessed that he had no home of his own. True, brave, generous, and able to carve his own way in the face of any fate, yet he had no home. If she married him she must give up Oakwood—give up all the home she possessed—give up all the property—and see another come in to claim it. For herself she would not have hesitated an instant; but what was to become of her aged parents?—Could she give them as a care upon the hands of Arthur? She dared not. Could she take from them the home that was now theirs while she had none other to give them?

It was thus that Rachel sat in her chair, and was unhappy, as we have said in the beginning. It was the conflict between filial duty and the heart's deepest, holiest love, and the decision that love must be sacrificed, that gave her unrest and tribulation. She would explain all to Arthur, and he would understand her. She would be frank, and tell him everything, and perhaps, perhaps, he would wait. Aye—she dared to think of the possibilities of the future. She could not help it. Her great love caught up her thoughts and led them where it would. The more she dwelt upon the character of Arthur, as she had seen it manifested in his frank and manly bearing, and in his warm and ardent speech, so redolent of love's true fragrance, the more she felt drawn toward him. He seemed to her as the crown of her life, without which earth held no promise for her of happiness in the coming time.

When evening came they met again. Arthur saw that Rachel had been weeping, and he took her hand, and spoke to her tenderly.

"Rachel, I meant not to wound you. Pardon me if I allowed my great love to lead me astray. I had hoped that I found in your heart some return of that affection which I had treasured up for so many years."

She put up her hand and stopped him. She had resolved that she would tell him the whole truth, and trust the result with Providence. A brief pause, and she spoke. She told him frankly of her love—she told how she had never forgotten him since first she knew him. And then she told how she had married with Captain Bowers—how she had yielded the obedience of a child, and secured a home for her parents. And then she told of the will, and how her marriage would turn her father and mother homeless upon the world.

Arthur drew her to his bosom, and asked her, "If your parents had assurance of a comfortable happy home while they lived, would you be my wife?"

"Yes, Arthur."

"And give up Oakwood?"

"I would give up all else for your true love."

He kissed her upon the brow, and then led to a seat. His face was bright with holy lustre, and his eyes glowed with a tearful jubilant light.

"Rachel," he said, when he had taken a seat by her side, "thus far I find you have loved and trusted me not knowing who I am. I think Captain Barnaby never told you."

"I never asked him," replied Rachel looking up with surprise. "In the other time he only spoke of you as his 'boy Arty,' whom he seemed to love and care for. In the latter time he has not mentioned your name, save on the occasion when he told me of your supposed loss at sea."

"And so, my Rachel, you did not know that I was Captain Barnaby's own nephew—the son of his own sister?"

"How?" cried the startled woman. "His sister?"

"Aye—his sister Prudence. He has no other, and never had."

"But her name is not the same as yours."

"No; but it was once. Her first husband was Harry Lee, a bold and dashing sailor, who was lost at sea, within two years after their marriage. I was their only child. Afterward she married with Mr. Marshall. So, you see, I am the sister's heir; and when you lose Oakwood it must come to me.—The two daughters of whom you have spoken are not my mother's children. They were the children of Mr. Marshall's first wife. I am my mother's only child; and I know that she will be blessed, indeed, when she sees me settled down, peaceful and contented, on shore. And now, darling, if I promise you that your father and mother may hold the home a daughter's love has given them, may I not hope——"

His arms were opened, and with a low cry of joy she sank forward upon his bosom. She knew that the ordeal was passed.

BILLING'S ADVICE TO JOE.—By awl means Joe get married, if you have got a fair show. Don't stand shivering on the bank; but pitch in and stick youre head under and the shiver is over. There ain't enny more trick in getting married after you are reddy, then there is eating peanuts.—Menny a man haz stood shivering on the shore till the river awl run out. Don't expect to marry an angel, the angels hev awl been picked up long ago. Remember, Joe, you ain't a saint yourself. Do not mary for buty exclusively; buty iz like ice, awful slippery, and thaws dreadful easy. Dont marry for luv neither; luv iz like a cooking stove good for nothing when the fuel gives out. But a mixture. Let the mixture be some buty, becomingly dressed, with about $225 in her pocket, a good speller, handy and neat in the house, plenty of good sense, a tuff constitoo-shun and by-laws, small feet, a light stepper; add to this clean teeth and a warm heart; the whole to be well shaken befor taken. This mixture will keep in enny climate, and not evaporate. If the cork happens to be left off for two or three minutes the strength ain't all gone. Joe, for heaven's sake! don't marry for pedigree; thar ain't much in pedigree unless it iz backed by bank stoes. A family with nothing but pedigree generally lacks sense; are like a kight with too much tail, if they would only take oph some ov the tail they might possibly get up, but they are always too illustrious to take oph the tail.

But mi dear fellow, don't be afraide; wedlock iz as natural as milk; about higsten cream thar iz one thing often doin't happen, and that is awl milk to hav cream to rize good, and keep sweet; it must be kept in a cool place, and not be roused up too often.

Don't be an old bachelor; lonesum and selfish, crawling out ov your hole in the morning, like a shiny-backed beetle, and then backing into it again every night, suspicious and suspected.

I would as soon be a stuffed rooster, set up in a show window, or a tin weather rooster on a ridge pole of a female seminary as a lonesum bachelor eered at by the virginity of the land.

Mark Twain produces one of the most striking cases of meanness on record. He says he knows a society which hired a man to blast rocks, and as he was pounding the powder with a crowbar an explosion took place, sending the man and crowbar out of sight. Both came down all right, and the man went to work again promptly. But though he was gone only fifteen minutes, the company "docked him for lost time."

As Dr. Dwight once passed through a region of very poor land, he said to a farmer:

'Sir, I see your land is not very productive.

"No sir, said the honest farmer, 'our land is just like self-righteousness.'

'Ah, how is that?'

'Why, the more a man has of it, the poorer he is."

What a pity that common sense, for want of use, should have become uncommon.

Conviviality "out West."

No American custom causes more genuine surprise and amusement amongst travelling foreigners than that which is known in our saloons as "treating"—consisting in the entertainment of two or three with refreshments for which one volunteers to pay. It is a pure Americanism - and all over the republic it is as common as in Europe it is unknown. There is probably no minute of any day in the year when two or three hundred citizens of Chicago are not guzzling something stronger than water at somebody else's expense. The casual meeting of two men who have never exchanged a word together is a signal for both instantly to exclaim, "Come, let's take something!" and for both to dive down into the nearest subterranean cavity below the sidewalk. The one who spoke first insists upon "paying the shot"—the word "shot" being a metaphorical reference to the deadly character of the contents usually taken into the stomach. If two old friends meet, the regular thing to say first is, "Let's drink to old time," and the resident must invariably "treat" the stranger. If a man be well acquainted, it is considered the generous thing to seize upon all his acquaintances as often as possible take them to a saloon, and give them a complicated stand up drink at the bar. If there is anything absurdor than this habit, we are unable to put out our finger on it.—Men do no always "treat" one another to car tickets because they happen to meet on the same seat. We never saw a man take out his pocket book on encountering an acquaintance, and say, "Ah, George! Delighted to see you! Do take a few postage stamps!—It's my treat!" Do men have a mania for paying each other's board bills? And is drinking together more "social" than eating together, or sleeping together? A traveler may go all over the continents of Europe, of Asia, and Africa without seeing a man except a Yankee, offer to "treat," and the Frenchmen are quite social enough, but, when they turn into a cafe to sip their wine and brandied coffee together, each man pays for his own. When two Germans meet, they will be very apt to embrace, and then turn into an adjacent beer cellar, sit down, and drink lager and eat pretzels and chat, but when they part again each man settles his own score independently. So in Italy. The Italians are proverbially merry and proverbially generous, but each pays his own wine macaroni, and cigars. They never go into each others pocketbooks in the sacred name of friendship. They would as soon think of transferring to each other their washer-woman's bill. The preposterous fashion of "treating" is responsible for the terrible drunkenness in America. There would be as little need of Temperance Societies and as little work for Good Templars as there is in Germany, France, Italy, if this pernicious and insidious habit were abolished. It is, take all in all, the most ridiculous, the most unreasonable, and the most pestilent custom that ever laid its tyrannical hands on civilized human beings.—Chicago Evening Post.

AN $82,000,000 HEIRESS.—We have an heiress in this county which far eclipses the Fort Edward milliner. We have undoubted evidence that a lady of Chester is one of the legal heirs of an immense estate in the City of New York, valued at the snug sum of $82,000,000. It happens thusly: Years ago, King George III., when this State was one of his Majesty's colonies, deeded a lot of land situate on Manhattan Isle, where the City of New York is now located, to one Robert Edwards, who leased the property ninety-nine years. That lease has just expired, and the estate now falls to the legal heirs. A granddaughter of the aforesaid Robert Edwards resides at Chester, in this county, who has taken measures to prove her heirship and obtain possession of her share. We would say to our bachelor friends that this fortunate lady is married, being the lawful wife of Mr. Taylor.—Glens Falls (N. Y.) Messenger.

A family, in Florida lost their little boy and they advertised for him in the daily paper. That very afternoon an alligator crawled up out of the swamp, and died on the front door-step. In his stomach were found a handfull of red hair, some bone buttons, a 'glass-alley,' a brass-barreled pistol, a Sunday-school book, and a pair of check pants. The advertisement did it.

A Colorado editor who has been making an Eastern tour, announces to his readers as the most remarkable piece of intelligence gleaned in his travels that there are actually newspaper men on the Atlantic coast who have not been called on to kill any one for several years.

An individual who was puzzled to know where all the Smiths came from, has at last solved the mystery. At waterbury, Conn., on the door of a factory appears a sign inscribed—'Smith Manufacturing Company."

Horace Greeley meditates writing a series of articles on those editors who have been making fun of "What He Knows about Farming.' He will close the series with—"What I know about Fools.'

"Will you dake someding?" said a German teetotaller to a friend, while standing near a tavern. "I don't care if do," was the reply. 'Vell, den, let's take a walk.'

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Tuesday Morning, Dec. 6, 1870.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

The "Globe" has the largest number of readers of any other paper published in the county. Advertisers should remember this.

To our Friends, Patrons, Readers, Enemies, and the Public in General.

We take pleasure in informing all interested that we have made arrangements to enlarge and improve the Globe as early in January next as possible. Our new power press for the paper, one of the best make in use, will be finished and placed in our office by the first of January, and a new and improved power press for fine job printing will also be on hand in a short time, when we will be ready to do work with any office outside of the cities, and most work equally as good and as cheap as it can be done in the cities. Of course, we will be at a heavy expense in making the improvements we have determined upon, but we feel very sure the friends of the Globe will come to our assistance in good time. New subscribers received at any time.

The Change.

We learn from Cremer's last Republican that that establishment, (Cremer excepted,) has been purchased by J. R. Durborrow, Esq, of Bedford, and also that the same gentleman has purchased the Journal & American, and that both offices are to be thrown into one, and but one paper to be issued about the 15th inst., under what name is not stated. Outside of the announcement of the Republican we learn that Mr. Nash of the Journal & American will continue to hold an interest in the new arrangement. We can't say whether Mr. Cremer speaks for the new arrangement or new editor or editors or not in his Valedictory. If he does, then we call the attention of the Republicans of Huntingdon county to the fact that we here and now enter our protest against the spirit of the new arrangement. Mr. Cremer says:

"It (the Republican) would not have been parted with had it not been for the fact that the success of the Republican party required that the Republican papers in the county should pass out of the hands and out of the control of their present owners into the hands of one who is a stranger in the county and to the unhappy strife in the Republican party. This, it is hoped, has been accomplished."

For cool impudence, the above paragraph goes ahead of anything we have seen in the Republican for some time. By the new arrangement, the Republican says, the REPUBLICAN PAPERS IN THE COUNTY have passed into the hands of Mr. Durborrow. The Globe is "read out" by the new arrangement. It is not to be considered a Republican paper by the new political doctors, at least so says the Republican, but we are willing to wait until we hear from the new arrangement before we strike for our rights in the Republican organization.

We are in no way responsible for the "unhappy strife in the Republican party" Mr. Cremer speaks of. In '68 we worked hard for the success of Grant, Morrell and the whole ticket. In '69 we worked equally as hard for the success of the whole ticket—but where was Mr. Cremer & Co. and Mr. Morrell's political patronage in that campaign? It was then that the strife began that defeated Republican nominees, and the same strife was continued by the same men, and Mr. Morrell and other nominees were defeated at the late election.

We want peace in the party. We want party success, and shall contend for both. We want the party to roll up again the majority we gave for Grant—but while we may desire, and will work for a great political victory for the Republican party, we will not agree to submit to the political teachings of Mr. Cremer, or any other man, or set of men, who have proscribed and may continue to proscribe us and our Republican friends. All Republicans have rights in their party and those rights must be respected by the powers that be, to secure certain success to the party in the future. We hope to see the day, and that soon, when common sense and justice will bring about perfect harmony and good feeling in the Republican party of the county.

THE CENSUS.—The complete official figures of the ninth census for the State of Pennsylvania, show a population of 3,482,593, an increase of 586,383 in the last decade, a larger increase than any other State in the Union, except Illinois. The population of Huntingdon county is 31,252; an increase of 3,152 since 1860.

☞The Vermont Legislature is a model body. It sits only two or three weeks every two years.—Exchange.

Wish we could say half as much for our Legislature. When it "gets to going," it never knows when to stop:

☞The dead have a hard time burying the dead.

The State Treasurership.

It matters little to us who is or who is not the State Treasurer. Looking at it in a purely business or political point of view, it is of little importance to any person or any party, but the individual who aspires to the position and the few banking institutions who happen to be friendly to the successful aspirant and through him get the use of a portion of the public money during his term of office. This is really the true cause of the bitter fight made over it every year, disguise it as you will. The Legislature makes the laws by which the State Treasury is governed, and the Treasury is merely the custodian of the public funds, and has little else to do than to carry out the laws, pay all just demands upon the Treasury and render an account of it to the law-making power of the Commonwealth. He has no patronage to bestow, other than the three or four clerkships to carry on the business of the office, unless he uses the money intrusted to his care, to provide the means, at a low rate of interest, for a few favored banking institutions to carry on their business, which would not only be a direct violation of the law but also a violation of his oath of office. The salary of the Treasurer was $1,700 until the present year, when it was increased to $5,000 per annum, yet we have heard of men who have spent immense sums to secure their election, and only for one year, for there is no certainty about a re-election.

A savage and bitter contest, repugnant alike to every honest man, is now being waged throughout the State, as to who shall have control of the "money bags" the coming year, which is likely to create a schism in our ranks before the Legislature gets organized. We hear of quite a number of candidates already in the field, the more prominent amongst whom are Mr. Mackey, of Pittsburg, defeated for re-election last winter, G. Dawson Coleman, a Lebanon county millionaire, and an ex-State Senator and who has consented to allow his name to be used provided Mackey cannot be elected, both said to be Senator Cameron's candidates. George D. Huff, of Westmoreland county, another candidate, is a young banker of considerable means and is pushed forward by a few banking firms to the West of us. Mr. Huff has never rendered any great service to the party, that we are aware of, which entitles him to any great consideration in the matter. He was a candidate for the same position last year, but was feebly supported.—Gen. Irwin is also mentioned, but we hear it said that he is not a candidate for re-election. He is the fight anyhow. M. H. Taggart, Irwin's cashier of the Treasury, is also spoken of as a candidate. A bitter, merciless and unceasing warfare would be waged against him. So with all we have enumerated.

We do not like the manner in which Gen. Irwin was elected last winter. We are not in favor of combinations with Democrats—they are dangerous, especially when we have a majority and something to spare. We have no personal feelings in the choice of a candidate but in order to prevent a disruption in our ranks and secure peace and harmony to our party, we are in favor of some new man, who is not in any way connected with any of the present Treasury rings, and we feel assured that all candid, right-thinking and unprejudiced minds will agree with us. We do not care who he may be, so that he will take the control of the Treasury out of the hands of sharks and political "blood-suckers," who use the hard earnings of the taxpayers to enrich themselves, and perform the duties of his office honestly, faithfully and conscientiously.

☞The foundation of a strong central authority in our Republic was laid by General Jackson in 1830. He compelled, by armed force, local obedience to those laws of Congress which the authorities and people of one State had refused to obey on the ground that, in their opinion, they were palpably unconstitutional, and for this reason he was opposed by Mr. Calhoun and his friends.

The next step was taken by Mr. Fillmore in 1850, when United States Marshals could enter States and take out therefrom slaves adjudged to have escaped from other States.

The next great step was the civil war under President Lincoln where the laws of Congress were executed by armed force and in many localities, as also under President Johnson. Under President Johnson and Grant we have seen the revenue laws of Congress executed by the national troops, detachments of marines destroying manufactories where the laws were intentionally evaded. And now, we have just seen President Grant sending troops to New York to execute the Congressional election laws.

Such has been the historic tendency of centralization, and so far it must be admitted, it has been efficacious; but then this national authority should only be exercised for the palpable good of the country—in other words, the laws of Congress should be made in the true interests of the whole country.

☞The provisions in Paris are almost exhausted; scarcely a fortnight's supply remains.

☞The Journal & American makes a very broad assertion when it says that some seven or eight hundred professed Republicans in this county disgraced their manhood by suffering themselves to be BOUGHT with Free Trade money to vote against Mr. Morrell—That's a serious charge against so many Republicans. But we don't believe the editors believe what they say—nevertheless they make the charge, and we leave the question with the editors and the seven or eight hundred "professed Republicans" to settle in any way they see proper. Perhaps the old editors want to make an impression in a certain quarter by slandering better Republicans they can claim to be, that they may stand a chance to get another small bone to pick. If Mr Nash remains in the new arrangement he may have some trouble "fixing up" satisfactorily such a charge against men he will ask to support the new paper.—Then again, the Republicans who voted against Mr. Morrell may be considered at least about as good Republicans as those who a year ago defeated other Republican nominees. If the bolters of both years are only "professed Republicans," the party of genuine Republicans is very small, and would make a bad show single handed in a fight with the Democrats. Now we are of the opinion that both wings of the party have gone just about as far in the fight as it is safe to go if it is important to keep the county Republican by a handsome or even by a small majority. The "professed Republicans" of '69 and the "professed Republicans of '70 are all wanted in one solid column to defeat the Democracy in the future, and especially in the next Presidential campaign.—Then, we give public notice that we are ready to "read in" all who will work and vote with us for the success of the Republican party. We can't afford to "read out" men willing to vote with us, even should they be considered by our neighbors of the Journal & American as only "professed Republicans." Their votes will count, and count as heavy as Gen. Grant's, Senators Cameron's, Scott's, or the votes of the editors of the pure Journal & American.

HE DECLINES TO CONTEST.—A letter appeared in the last Journal & American from Mr. Morrell in which he informs all interested that he will not contest the seat in Congress with Mr. Speer.

In his letter he says:

"By hunting up the scattered fraudulent votes, over one hundred of which have been reported to me, I could doubtless make a successful contest, but being fully satisfied that my defeat—indeed anything short of 1200 majority in the district—is due to the base treachery and debauchery of professed Republicans, I should spurn to hold the seat at the cost of gathering up the petty frauds of our opponents."

His defeat was due to the "base treachery and debauchery of professed Republicans?" How was it a year ago—was the regularly nominated Republican ticket defeated by the base treachery and debauchery of professed Republicans? Who gave the power and who debauched Republicans then? It was impossible for the guilty to escape unpunished.

Letter from Charleston, W. V.

CHARLESTON, W. V., Nov. 23, 1870.

EDS. GLOBE.—This you no doubt are aware is the capital of the State of West Virginia, and is destined at no distant day to become a large city.—Charleston is situated on the Kanawha river, sixty miles from the Ohio river. We have steamboat navigation to this city, and steamboats run some thirty-five miles above this point. The population is said to be about five thousand, about one thousand of whom are American citizens of African descent (partially) More than one-half of the white population are of rebel proclivities, and can drink more forty rod whiskey, tell bigger yarns, and swear harder oaths than any other place on the continent of America; (that is a large scope of land, ain't it, but 'tis true as preaching.)

One of the latest sensations here is a white snake, which was captured in August last, being at that time but 2 feet long, but now measures 5 feet.—It had when captured a poisonous horn in its tail with which it struck a dog and caused its death in thirty minutes. The horn or fang has been taken out and his snakeship now is harmless.

Passing by an old grave-yard this afternoon I walked in and my eyes rested on an ancient-looking tombstone upon which was inscribed all of the following inscription and much more, but so much of it was obliterated that this is all I could make out:

SACRED
To the Memory of MARTHA U. FRY,
Wife of Joseph L. Fry, and Daughter of James and Jane Wilson.
She was born Oct. 18th, 1807, Married Oct. 18th, 1822, Died October 15th, and was Buried Oct. 18th, 1830.
Her Husband, Parents, and four Children survived her; one of whom Mary Matilda, Born February 21st, 1830, Died Nov. 2nd, 1830,
And lies Buried beneath this Memorial by her side.
Underneath this stone doth lie,
As much virtue as could die;
Which when alive did vigor give,
To as much beauty as could live.

American Politics.

Political life is a curious study. In England the most dazzling prizes are political. In the english novels political success is represented as the greatest triumph. However illustrious in rank a man may be, however rich the real crown of his life is political distinction. It is very much so in fact. Men of the highest culture, of the utmost refinement and delicacy of nature, enter the lists. Parliament, to the young and accomplished English gentleman of to day, is what the tournament and the field were to his ancestor. The Church, the army, and political life are the three careers opento a "gentleman." And of these the highest in general estimation is unquestionably the last. It is hardly less so in France. The hero in the vaudeville, which is a picture of contemporary life, triumps at last in receiving his appointment as embassador; Upon the actual stage of life scholars, historians, savans, are politicians and statemen also. Guizot, Thiers, Lamartine, Arago, do not disdain an active part in political position as of their literary fame.

To cross the Atlantic to America is to reverse the fact altogether. The American "gentleman" upon his travels who remembers with more real pride than any other incident of his tour the fact that he was invited to dinner by the Prime Minister in England, or by the Foreign Minister in France, in his own country wonders that any-gentleman can dabble in the dirty pool of politics. His charitable excuse for his neighbor who interests himself in political affairs is that he is rather needy, and would like a respectable living as minister to Monaco, and so pays the necessary price by shutting his eyes and rolling a little in the dirt If you ask him whether Mr. Gladstone and John Bright, Canning, Burke, and Lord Chatham, also rolled in the dirt, he smiles, and says they manage these things differently in England. If you ask him whether upon the whole, those men could have employed their talents more usefully, and would have done more wisely for themselves, for their country, and for civilization, if they had left politics to inferior men, he is astonished than a man of your sense should not be able to make distinctions. If you ask him again whether he is of opinion that a government like ours would be more honestly and economically administered if it were left wholly to blackguards, he shakes his head. If you then press him to know whether such a government will take care of itself if decent and honorable men decline to take any interest in its managment he bows politely, and wishes you good-morning.—Editor's Easy Chair, in Harper's Magazine for December.

BEST FAMILY SOAP

Liberal Inducements to Purchasers.

A Plan Deserving the Attention of Every Family.

THE MYRTLE SOAP COMPANY
is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York and transacting its business through the Agency of Danforth Brothers, at 40 Murray street, New York City. It offers to the public its
GOLD MEDAL SOAP.
in boxes of 50 lbs, at $5 a box, and gives purchasers an opportunity for dividends on each box—the dividends ranging from $1 to $25,000. On each 10,000 boxes sold and returned as such 10,000 shall be sold, there shall be 327 cash dividends made, varying from $5 to $50, and amounting to $2,500. And when 50,000 boxes shall have been sold, there will be a Final Grand Dividend of $32,000—viz:
A BROWN STONE HOUSE,
Brooklyn, (the deed of which has been left with the Safe Deposit Company, 146 and 148 Broadway), in trust of the purchaser of the fortunate box, and the balance in cash dividends, from $5 to $1,000 each. There will be in 1,536 Serial Dividends, and 835 Final Dividends, making 2,501 dividends in all.
$45,000 DIVIDEND to PURCHASERS
Purchasers of the
GOLD MEDAL SOAP,
will receive a properly numbered bill of purchase for each and every box purchased, the holders of which will share in the dividends in each of the 10,000 boxes to which their bills of purchase belong, and then ALL will share in the Final Grand Dividend, when 50,000 boxes shall have been sold.
NOT A GIFT ENTERPRISE.
This should not be classed with the numerous gift enterprise humbugs, It is an honest and legitimate business plan for introducing to public notice the Superior Goods of an Established and Reputable Corporation.—The plan is set forth in detail in the Circulars of the Company, which can be had at 40 Murray street or of any of the numerous local agents, and in which reference is made, by permission to a large number of well-known business and public men as to the integrity and honorable management of the Myrtle Soap Company.
THE SOAP HAS NO SUPERIOR.
Purchasers will get a box of soap at as low a price as the same quantity can be purcased in any market; and article warranted to be of the very first quality of family sudsandry soap.
It washes cleaner and quicker than any other soap with less labor.
It is invaluable to Mechanics, Printers, Painters, and others using inks, oils, &c.
It saves time, as clothes wash quicker.
It saves money, as one pound will go as far as two of ordinary soap.
It will make the best Soft Soap at a very small cost and very little labor.
It removes Grease spots, Paint, etc., from clothing.
It cleanses and softens the skin, not chapping.
It is equally good for the Bath, Toilet and Shaving.
It saves labor and clothes need less rubbing.
It will not injure the finest fabric.
Is to put up in boxes, 50 bars, 40 pounds.
It is stamped with the name of the Company on each bar.
It is an article every family wants and must have.
It is an article worth every cent paid for it.
And in addition to this, without the risk or loss of one cent purchasers will share in the liberal dividends to be made.
Ask your grocer for it; if he does not keep it and will not get it, please write to us, and we will send it to you or send you the address of the nearest grocer who keeps it.

MURDER NEAR BROAD TOP CITY.

The rumor which we published last week in reference to a murder near Broad Top city, this county, has been corroborated in some particulars On the night of the 25th of November, the night after Thanksgiving-day, (the Peightal murder, it will be remembered, was committed last year the day before Thanksgiving,) the body of Mrs. Mary Ann Morrison was found mutilated in a frightful manner, with life extinct, and lying with her right side on the floor and her feet on the bed. Her face and head were badly mangled, as if a club had been used, and her left elbow was out of place. A Coroner's inquest was held and the verdict was that she had come to her death by violence.

Suspicions rested upon William Griffith, who lived in the house, and had engaged the woman as housekeeper, and last week he was lodged in jail at this place to await a trial. Suspicions implicating him are based on the ground that on the above night he went home drunk, having threatened that he would kill her. Griffith's story is that she was killed before he got home, as he stumbled over what he supposed afterwards to be her body; but he did not give the alarm until next morning.

The murder has caused great excitement in that region, and many of the citizens think Griffith is innocent.

Letter from Cumminsville.

EDS. GLOBE:—As you have asked for correspondence from every township, I thought a few words from Jackson would not come amiss.

The stage line between Petersburg and Greenwood Furnace has changed hands. The obliging and accommodating Mr. Jacob Little, of McAlavy's Fort, is successor to J. A. Norris, and will run the stage as before.

The Methodist church at Eunisville are having a revival at this time and are doing a vast amount of good in the way of converting souls to God. The Baptists also at Cornpropst's Mills are holding a big meeting, with success.

Mr. J. N. Norris, having retired from driving stage, is now going to engage in the flour and feed business, and will run his mill day and night.—He has secured the services of S. D. Heffner as miller, and everybody in this community says that he can't be beat as a miller.

Deer and turkey seem to be plenty in this neck of woods this fall, as we hear almost every day of one or the other being killed by the sportsmen.

ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Lydia Orbison, wife of Wm. P. Orbison, Esq., of this place, met with an accident on Tuesday evening last. She was crossing Smith street and when near Jackson's corner, he was suddenly precipitated to the ground, and for a short time was unconscious. In attempting to get up she found she was unable, when a gentleman standing near assisted her to her residence. On examination it was found that one of her ankles was badly bruised. The accident was caused by a horse which was frightened by the noise of the cars, running off from the railroad station, and in going past her it is supposed the wheels of the carriage caught her dress, throwing her down and ran over her ankle. She is rapidly recovering.

BAZAAR OF FASHION.—Particular attention paid to Dress and Cloak making and all kinds of sewing. Also a full line of Millinery goods, and Paper Patterns, constantly on hand. Gollering, Fluting and Pinking done in all their various branches. Skirts, sacques and children's clothing stamped in all styles, and at low prices, at Mrs. L. A. Hamer's, corner of Mifflin and Bath streets. Oct. 18-1y.

☞ Our friends in and out of town and all others who may desire to preserve the mortal images of those they love—and who does not feel this desire?—will do well to call at Donnell's new Photograph Gallery in Cunningham's building near Broad Top corner.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for any incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, PASTULE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

DR. SCHENCK advises Consumptives to go to Florida in the Winter.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung disease and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably sound case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places on this continent for this purpose is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular, and not subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes. Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peter man. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and their dry and bracing. Enfaula and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Melonville. It is two miles from river, or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibeddia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing cold winds and fogs Sackonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, my custom in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least of the population die of this terrible disease. In the middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup Schenck's Seaweed Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest.—The physician who prescribes for cold cough or night-sweats, and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy° which should be kept regularly at this point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is so easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhœa comes, a dose of the Mandrakes will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and watermelons, pears, apples, plumbs, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fever. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the actual condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of the medicines depends entirely upon them being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, yet no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit, and clear that any one can use them without consulting one, and can be bought from any druggist.

ROSADALIS

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousand of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send Dr our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Manne for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleanser of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreeboro' Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has an obstinate sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have been afflicted for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

XLI.

STEAM IN AGRICULTURE.

As yet, the great body of our farmers have been slow in availing themselves of the natural forces in operation around them. Vainly for them does the wind blow across their fields and over their hilltops: It neither threshes nor grinds their grain; it has ceased even to separate it from the chaff. The brook brawls and foams idly adown the precipice or hill-side; the farmer grinds his grain, churns his cream, and turns his grindstone, just as though falling water did not embody power. He draws his Logs to one mill, and his Wheat, Corn, or Rye to another, and returns in due season with his boards or his meal; but the lesson which the mill so plainly teaches re mainsby him unread Where running or leaping water is not, there brisk breezes and fiercer gales are apt to be. But the average farmer ignores the mechanical use of stream and breeze alike, taxing his own muscle to achieve that which the blind forces of Nature stand ready to do at his command. It may not, and I think it will not, be always thus.

Steam as a cheap source of practically limitless power, is hardly a century old; yet it has already revolutionized the mechanical and manufacturing industry of Christendom. It weaves nearly every yard of all the Textile Fabrics that clothe and shelter and beautify the human family. It fashions every bar and every rail of Iron or Steel; it impels the machinery of nearly every manufactory of wares or of implements; and it is very rapidly supplanting wind in the propulsion of vessels on the high seas, as it has already done on rivers and on most inland waters.

Water is, however, still employed as a power in certain cases, but mainly because its adaption to this end has cost many thousand dollars which its disuse would render worthless.

I am quite within bounds in estimating that nine-tenths of all the material force employed by man in manufactures, mechanics, and navigation, is supplied by steam, and that this disproportion will be increased to ninety-nine hundredths before the close of this century.

For agriculture, steam has done very much, in the transportation of crops and of fertilizers, but very little in the preparation or cultivation of the soil. Of steam wagons for roads or fields, steam-plows for pulverizing and deepening the soil, and steam-cultivators for keeping weeds down and rendering tillage more efficient, we have had many heralded in sanguine bulletins throughout the last forty years; but I am not aware that one of them has fulfilled the sanguine hopes of its author. Though a dozen steam plows have been invented in this country, and several imported from Europe, I doubt that a single square mile of our country's surface has been plowed wholly by steam down to this hour. If it has, Louisiana—a State which one would not naturally expect to find in the van of industrial progress—has enjoyed the benefit and earned the credit of the achievement.

Of what Steam has yet accomplished in direct aid of Agriculture, I have little to say, though in Great Britain quite a number of steam plows are actually at work in the fields, and I am assured with fair success. Until something breaks or gives out, one of these plows does its appointed work better and cheaper than such work is or can be done by animal power; but all the steam plows whereof I have any knowledge seem too bulky, too complicated, too costly, ever to win their way into general use. I value them only as hints and incitements toward something better suited to the purpose.

What our farmers need is not a steam plow as a specialty, but a locomotive that can travel with facility, not only on common roads, but across oven freshly-plowed fields, without embarrassment, and prove as docile to its manager's touch as an average span of horses. Such a locomotive should not cost more than $500, nor weigh more than a ton when laden with fuel and water, for a half hour's steady work. It should be so contrived that it may be hitched in a minute to a plow, a harrow, a wagon or cart, a saw or grist mill, a mower or reaper a thresher or stalk-cutter, a stump or rock-puller, and made useful in pumping and draging operations, digging a cellar or laying up a wall, as also in ditching or trenching. We may have to wait some years yet for a servant so dexterous and docile, yet I feel confident that our children will enjoy and appreciate his handiwork.

The farmer often needs far more power at one season than at another, and is compelled to retain and subsist working animals at high cost through months in which he has no work for them, because he must have them when these months have transpired. If he could replace those animals by a machine which, when its season of usefulness is over, could be cleaned, oiled, and put away under a tight roof until next seeding time, the saving alike of cost and trouble would be very considerable.

When our American reapers first challenged attention in Great Britain the general skepticism as to their efficiency was counteracted by the suggestion that, oven though reaping by machinery should prove more expensive than reaping by hand, the ability to cut and save the grain crop more rapidly than hitherto would overbalance that enhancement of cost. In the British Isles, day after day of chilling wind and rain is often encountered in harvest time; the standing wheat or oats or barley becoming dragged, or lodged, or beaten out, while the owner impatiently awaits the recurrence of sunny days. When these at length arrive, he is anxious to harvest many acres at once, since his grain is wasting and he knows not how soon cloud and tempest may again be his portion. But all his neighbors are in like predicament with himself; so that little extra help is attainable. If now the aid of a machine may be commanded, which will cut 15 or 20 acres per day, he cares less how much that work will cost than how soon it can be effected. Hence, even though cutting by horse power had proved more costly than cutting by hand, it would still have been welcome.

So it is with plowing, here and almost everywhere. Our farmers have this year been unable to begin plowing for winter grain so early as they desired, by reason of intense heat and drouth, whereby their fields were baked to the consistency of half-burned brick Much seed will in consequence have been sown too late, while much seeding will have been precluded altogether, by inability to prepare the ground in due season. If a machine had been at hand whereby 15 or 20 acres per day could have been plowed and harrowed, thousands would have invoked its aid to enable them to sow their grain in tolerable season, even though the cost had been essentially heavier than that of old-fashioned plowing. I traversed Illinois on the 13th and 14th of May, 1859, when its entire soil seemed soaked and sodden with incessant rains, which had not yet ceased pouring. Inevitably, there had been little or no plowing yet for the vast corn crop of that State; yet barely two weeks would intervene before the close of the proper season for corn planting. Even if these should be wholly favorable, the plowing could not be effected in season, and much ground must be planted too late or not planted at all. In every such case, a machine that would plow six or eight furrows as fast as a man ought to walk, would add immensely to the year's harvest, and be hailed as a general blessing.

I recollect that a German observer of Western cultivation—a man of decided perspicacity and wide observation—recommended that each farmer who had not the requisite time or team for geting in his corn crop in due season should plow single furrows thro' his field at intervals of 3 to 3½ feet, plant his corn on the earth thus turned, and proceed, as soon as his planting was finished, to plow out the spaces as yet undisturbed between the springing rows of corn. I do not know that this recommendation was ever widely followed; but I judge that, under certain circumstances, it might be, to decided advantage and profit.

I have not attempted to indicate all the benefits which steam is to confer directly on agriculture, within the next half century. The irrigation must become general, I confidently believe; and I anticipate a very extensive sinking of wells, at favorable points, in order that water shall be drawn therefrom by wind or steam to moisten and enrich the slopes and plains around them. Such a locomotive as I have foreshadowed might be taken from well to well, pumping from each in an hour or two sufficient water to irrigate several of the adjucent acres: thus starting a second crop of hay on fields whence the first had been taken, and renewing verdure and grown where no now see vegetation suspended for weeks, if not months.—I feel sure that the mass of our farmers have not yet realized the importance and beneficence of irrigation, nor the facility wherewith its advantages may be secured.

ADDRESS

NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED.

WHOSE SUFFERINGS HAVE BEEN PROTRACTED

FROM HIDDEN CAUSES, AND WHOSE

CASES REQUIRE

PROMPT TREATMENT.

TO RENDER EXISTENCE DESIRABLE

If you are suffering, or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpatation of the heart? Does your liver, or urine organs, or your kidneys, get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or flocky, or is it ropy on settling? Or does a thick skum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you rest less nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, or nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged, they are always polite and pleasant in company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitution, but those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in these organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every form of disease humanity is heir to—and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, ETC

No medicine or treatment can excel the powerful curative power of

WHITE PULMONIC BALSAM.

It cures with a rapidity unequalled by any other remedy offered for throat and lung diseases. It is recommended by over 2,000 persons in Wilmington, and hundreds in Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities and communities throughout the country. Mr. Pennington, of Wilmington, Illinois, writes that there is not (with a few exceptions) a family in that city who will be without it if possible to procure it. Such is its popularity wherever it is known—and this popularity arises from the fact that it universally cures all who use it. There is no case of

COUGHS, COLDS, SORE THROAT,

ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, CROUP,

BLOOD SPITTING, HOARSENESS, and even Pulmonary Consumption, where the system is not broken down with the wear of the disease, or pretended medicine, or inexperienced advice, that this Balsam will not cure if carefully used according to directions. We guarantee it all we represent it be, and invite a trial from the afflicted everywhere. Price 50 cts., medium size, and $1 for large size bottles. Prepared only by
